Observations...

By UDELL

Now that the holidays are over, the traffic problem seems to be solved for a while anyway. A person driving along the crowded streets of Bay St. Louis had to keep a wary eye on the pedestrians as well as some of the reckless speed-demons who were literally flying up and down most of our streets.

The Bayou LaCrosse Church is sponsoring a Cake Walk which will be held April 27 at 2:00 p. m. on the church grounds. The affair is being given for the benefit of the church building fund. Music will be furnished by Vic Green and his Mississippi Play Boys; so, for an evening of fun and to help this worthy cause, attend the Cake Walk.

The Biloxi Council of Knights of Columbus will be held at the initiation to be held Sunday, April 20. All members are urged to attend. The local Knights will also hold their regular meeting Monday, April 21, at 8:00 p. m. at the K. C. Hall.

Tryouts will be held for "Dough Girls" the next Little Theatre production on April 22 at 8:00 p. m. The cast calls for 24 people, both male and female. The play is to be directed by Mrs. Marie Louise Blair.

Word was received recently by Representative Phillips from Congressman Colmer that 2000 feet of the present bridge over the Bay of St. Louis will be given to the city for a public pier. When it was first suggested that this be done, the U. S. Engineers said, "no." An original agreement stated that this bridge, when not used for travel was to be removed completely from the present site and was not to be used for any other purpose. Our Representative and Congressman Colmer went to the bat for this area, and from all indications, a public pier will be available when the new bridge is opened to traffic.

Red Cross Gives Aid in Lakeshore

Have we forgotten what has so recently been done for disaster victims within our midst? The family whose home was damaged by the mid-February tornado has just moved into it, completely repaired, with new hopes, because of the ready assistance of the American Red Cross.

Those who have joined this great organization must surely feel that their contribution made some of this possible, extended that help in a way they would want all disaster victims to receive it.

Today's headlines tell of even greater losses by flood; the burden of relief to these victims makes greater the need for every one's support. The extra dollar, half-dollar, even less, could mean a lot to them. . . shelter, medical attention, food, rehabilitation. Dig a little deeper to make the gesture of neighbor helping neighbor, one offered with real understanding.

Your dollar gives so much. YOUR Red Cross means so many needs! It knows no boundaries in peace time and in wartime, it is the one source of help for the distressed, ever ready and ever willing. . . Red Cross begins and ends with people—people who want to help and those who need help being brought together under the symbol of the Red Cross.

Your support is urgently needed to carry on Red Cross services to all disaster stricken areas generously, NOW. J. Cyril Glover, campaign chairman, stated.

AMERICANISM - PRESERVATION OF FREEDOM
"Give me liberty or give me death" is a famous quotation of one of our greatest statesmen. Not many of us are familiar with the words preceding these which were, "I care not what others may say." In this statement, Patrick Henry expressed the true spirit of freedom. Then, as today, any American was free to express his own thoughts, although they differed from others.

Unlike the government of all other nations, that of the United States of America assures to its people the preservation of their freedoms by means of a few cardinal principles in its original Constitution and Bill of Rights. Most important among the Constitution's safeguards are the rights of freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom of enterprise, freedom from fear, equality before the law, and assumption of one's innocence until proven guilty in a court of law before a jury of free men and women.

In Patrick Henry's day, America was protected on each side by miles of water, and we could be content to preserve our freedom in our own little world. But with modern air travel in the age of speed and atomic weapons, the world has shrunk to where we must be concerned with the political health of peoples on the other side of the world. We have not entered into world politics with the thought of bending others to our way of life because we know it is the better, but rather, in the same spirit which prompted Patrick Henry's outburst on the floor of Congress; to give them the opportunity to choose their own way of life, whether or not it be the same as ours.

After the last World War many countries were so depressed economically by fighting physically for their freedom, that they could not see a clear road ahead, and were willing to listen to power mongers who threatened their freedom with the promise of a little more food for their stomachs. Instead of standing by and letting these nations fall one by one, America has stepped into the breach in an attempt to provide these people with a means to support themselves while they get their countries economy back on a sound footing. For those who were threatened militarily, we sent troops; to those who were hungry, we sent food. Such assistance was not given in the spirit of a bribe to follow our political system, but rather as a loan of the proper tools so that these people could make themselves sufficient without having to sacrifice their divine heritage of freedom.

Although we are not war-minded people, when faced with the necessity of war our soldiers are unequalled because our standard of life, beyond all comparison with others, and our economic system of free enterprise are only possible so long as we preserve our freedom.

Michigan Foresters Visit In County

By Dan Baggett, Forester,
International Paper Company

On April 11 and 12, local employees of the International Paper Company were hosts to a group of young foresters from the University of Michigan.

This group of 22 students, including both graduates and undergraduates, who, with 10 days to spare between school years, started a tour of the forest industries of the South in order that they may further their knowledge of forestry as well as the possibility of employment upon graduation.

These foresters deserve much credit for their initiative to pay their own expenses in making a tour of this section of the country. Employees of the International Paper Company were happy to have had the opportunity to talk with this group, and to point out some of the things that their company is trying to accomplish in this country.

The local foresters were impressed with the interest shown by this group of students. In all discussions or exchanges of ideas there is always one outstanding point of observation, and this of young timber destroyed each year by forest fires, unfortunately, they had some of this to show them, too. They were greatly impressed to see the unlimited possibilities of timber production in this country, and at the same time, notable to understand why the people are not taking more interest in the field of forestry, particularly in fire protection. These thoughts are verified by any professional forester, and most laymen landowners whose livelihood depends directly on timber and timber products. The interest shown by these students, from their first stop-over at the Crosssett Experimental Forest in Arkansas to the Southern Forest Experiment Station in New Orleans, exemplifies the spirit of any young forester who is anxious to help himself and be a credit to his profession.

Students making the trip were Thomas C. Adams, Burton V. Barnes, Michael L. Eber, William E. Eberhardt, James A. Guntoll, Robert E. Heinz, Robert H. Kunesch, Richard R. Mason, Harry L. Mosler, Robert L. Novy Jr., Thano Premarasi, Sanford D. Schenitz, Bryce E. Smith, Keith W. Thomas, Arthur L. Van Slyke, David C. West, Charles O. Wiley, Arthur Wimpenny, Jr., David R. Yates and Maksymuk Bohdar.

They were accompanied on their trip by Kenneth P. Davis, Professor of Forest Management and Chairman, Department of Forestry, School of Natural Resources, University of Michigan, and Bruce G. Buell, Manager Woodland Department, Northern Paper Mills, Green Bay, Wisconsin. Others taking part in the local field trip and supper at Sea Glenn Lodge

ABOUT US

The purpose of the Girl Scout organization is to "help girls realize the ideals of womanhood as preparation for their responsibilities in the home and as active citizens in the community and the world."

To accomplish this purpose, the Girl Scout organization provides a leisure-time program for girls from seven years through 17.

ATTENTION, GIRL SCOUTS! Day Camp has been set for June 16 through 27 for the Intermediates at Camp Bernard, Gulfport.

The Brownies will attend June 30 through July 11. We will have more to tell you about camp later.

Registered Girl Scouts may subscribe at the special half price Girl Scout rate of $1.25 a year to the "American Girls" whenever five or more subscriptions are sent in by the troop leaders on the troop subscription order-blank. See your leader.

To all of you who purchased Girl Scout cookies, sold them, and helped in various ways to make the sale a success... to Frank Quintini for entertaining Brownie Troop 1 (formerly numbered Troop 1) at the fire house... to Girl Scout's own Mrs. J. B. Goldman who has helped us all with her ever-ready interest, support, and advice... to Mrs. C. C. McDonald for her continued help and interest... to Mrs. John Hecht for directing the play, "The Brownie Story," for Troop 1... and to Miss Sybil Koeniger for teaching square dancing and for her able substituting for leaders.

TROOP REPORTS

Brownie Troop 2 held their regular weekly meeting, Thursday, April 3, at the Methodist Educational Building. A short business session was held. The cookie sale was checked; troop songs were learned; plans were made for an Easter Egg hunt, and a friendship circle was formed.

Eva Kramer was selected as scribe for the week; Nita Kay Erwin, president and Diane Grass, treasurer.

Brownie Troop 3, with 31 members, sold 696 boxes of cookies, a record. Four of the members are thus eligible for "The 52 Club."

The Intermediate Girl Scout troop, sponsored by the Rotary Club, met at the Youth Center Wednesday. One new member, Gail Colson, was admitted. The flag test was passed by Patricia Bennett, Anne Perry and Gail Colson.

For handicraft work the girls made zulu pins, finishing them at the meeting.

Plans for the investiture ceremony were made with the refreshment committee, consisting of Kathleen Joyce, Gail Bandet and Gail Colson. The program committee is composed of Lynn Witter, Ann Blanchard and Anne Perry. Gail Poyadou and Patricia Bennett are reporters.

Girl Scout Troop 1 has divided into three patrols with Catherine Allison, Paula Kimbrell and Ann Marie Mendell as patrol leaders. Meetings are held at the Episcopal Church Sunday School room.

The troop is busy rehearsing for the investiture ceremony, planning a party for that time for the parents following the ceremony. Designs for the invitations to be sent were practiced. The leader read a prayer which might be used in the ceremony.

This troop is having a series of "Juliette Low Breakfasts" on Saturday mornings on the beach at Mrs. Chamberlain's. Members who have read the book, "Juliette Low: Girl Scout," are invited to attend. Those attending the first "cook-out" breakfast were Rosalie Coward, Jeanne Laroux, Linda Ladner, Gwen Heitzmann and Bernard Chamberlain. (We're sorry you couldn't come, Cathy Allison.) Brigadier, the Chamberlain's cocker spaniel, also enjoyed a breakfast of fried eggs and bacon, thanks to the unintentional kindness of Gwen Heitzmann. Better luck next time, Gwen!

students and determines their eligibility for the Bachelor of Arts degree by comparative examinations, as well as by credits earned in separate courses.

A "pilot" class of 100 students will be admitted to begin the Michaelmas Quarter and applications for this initial class are being received. Students transferring from other colleges and universities should forward their credentials and transcripts to the Director of Admissions as soon as possible. Comparatively the fees will not be high; tuition will be approximately $150.00 a quarter and room and board $175.00 a quarter.

Considerable pressure has been brought upon the Board of Trustees to establish a four year day high school, and Father MacLaury stated that if the 75 students required by the State law will have made application and been accepted by June 1, 1952, that application would be made for a Class A license from the State of Mississippi, a faculty appointed, and that the high school would open in September.

The Chairman of the Board predicted that the college would bring approximately one quarter million dollars yearly income to the Gulf communities and that the cultural contribution made by the college would enrich the entire community life.

The Reverend Douglas R. MacLaury, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of Kibbie College, has formerly served as President of Canterbury College, Danville, Indiana; the Rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, Chicago; and as a Missionary priest in Western Kansas. He served as Chaplain at the University of Wisconsin and Fort Hays, Kansas State College, and was Chairman of the Youth Commission of the Diocese of Chicago.

Father MacLaury is a graduate of Carroll College, the University of Wisconsin, and Nashotah Seminary, and is well-known as a minister and speaker, as well as for his interest in the problems of young people and in marriage and family counseling.

At the group meetings each specialist will discuss the advantages and disadvantages of his occupation and the qualifications for entering that particular field of employment. Students will be encouraged to ask questions and participate in the discussions.

Occupations to be discussed were selected on the basis of questionnaires which all high school students completed, suggesting the occupations in which they were interested.

Girl Scout News

ABOUT US

These facts are basic to the Girl Scout movement:

1. The Girl Scout organization believes that its ways of work serve the needs of girls as they grow into adulthood, and the need of society for citizens capable of participating in a democratic way of life.

2. The Girl Scout Promise and Laws, which are an ethical code, provide the driving force behind the movement and the program.

3. Much of the Girl Scout organization's strength derives from the fact that responsibility for the movement rests primarily with volunteers.

From these beliefs come our ways of work, our program, and our policies.

Noted Artist Residing In Waveland

By: Margaret Tatum

"Sympathique et beau"—sympathetic and beautiful—says French painter Jean Paul Brusset, presently residing in Waveland, is in this country under patronage of the French government. He first came to America in March 1951, and throughout last year his paintings were exhibited in Paris, where he participated in the decoration of the "La Femme" and the "Vans de France" pavilions. Brusset also edited an album of his designs on the "Wines of France," with a preface by the President of the Republic.

Jean Paul Brusset also designed the decoration for the grand gala of the International Film Festival at Cannes and for the "Bal des Petits Lits Blancs." He is also known for his decoration of the famous "Boeuf sur le Toit" and the Palm Beach Casino at Cannes.

During the war the Ministry of Information of the Paul Reynaud government charged him with painting pictures of "France During the War of 1940."

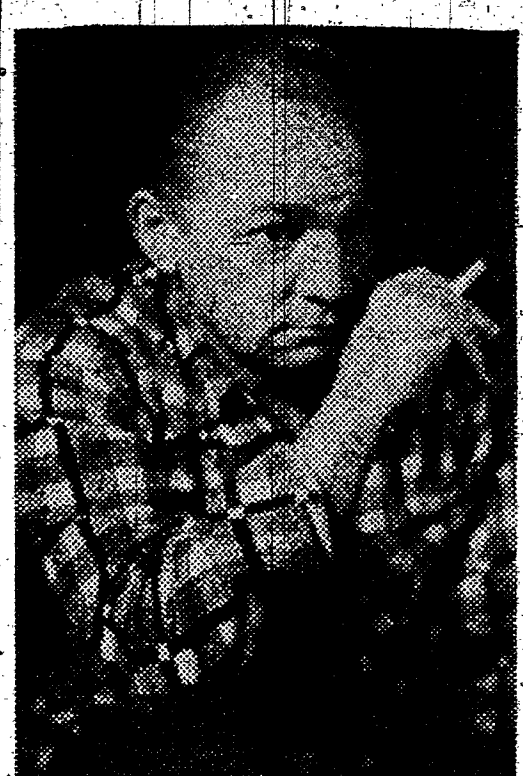

In 1941 Brusset left France to join the French Corps in North Africa. In 1942 he was charged with the decoration of the Voice of America Studios in Algiers, and in 1943 he was assigned the task of painting propaganda posters for the Free French Government in Tunisia.

After the war Brusset returned to Paris and dedicated himself to painting scenes of the city he had cherished throughout the long war years of exile. His paintings won him the recognition of the French government. A series of his designs are scheduled to be published in a deluxe album prefaced by Paul Caudel of the French Academy and winner of the Nobel Prize for literature.

Before coming to America Jean Paul Brusset went to Venezuela. His paintings won recognition of the Venezuelan government, and he was asked to design a series of 30 new postal stamps. For this project he toured the country and studied the various industries and characteristics to be used in the design.

In January 1951 Brusset landed in San Juan, Porto Rico, where he had his first exhibition, on American soil. It was not until March 1951, however, that he achieved a special series of "Studies" of the French Quarter.

Brusset studied fresco with Baudouin sculpture with Wierick, and painting with Wierick in Paris. At the age of 18 he exhibited his paintings at the Salon d'Automne, the Salon des Artistes Français, and at the Tuileries Gallery. At the age of 24 he had his first one-man show, under the patronage of President Edouard Herriot and the Minister of the Beaux Arts, Tristan Bernard, famous French critic, wrote the preface for his catalogue, and Brusset was awarded the distinguished Paul Guille-

SIGN OF PROGRESS

in the Gulf South

UNITED DOUBLES ITS SALES OF NATURAL GAS

Here, indeed, is a barometer that spells growth and progress. From 1941 to 1951, annual United Gas sales jumped from 279 billion to 690 billion cubic feet of natural gas. Customers rose from 198,000 to 431,000. Communities served increased from 321 to 461. All this in just ten years!

Our company accepts its responsibility for providing dependable natural gas service in the Gulf South... and its growth parallels that of the five-state area served. It is our desire, as it is of every good citizen of the Gulf South, to do everything possible to assure a continuation of such progress.

Give University Of Mississippi $500,000 For New Building

University, Miss., April 10.—The University of Mississippi has received from Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Carrier of Sardis a gift of $500,000 toward the construction of a building to house the school of Engineering, Chancellor J. D. Williams announced Wednesday.

"Mr. and Mrs. Carrier have been particularly interested in the University for many years," Chancellor Williams said, "and it is the good fortune of the State of Mississippi that they have deemed it advisable to make the contribution to the education and advancement of the youth of the State and to research directed toward the development of our natural and industrial potentialities. Their generosity merits the gratitude of every citizen of Mississippi, for the way will now be open for the School of Engineering to do work that will directly or indirectly affect the economic welfare of all of us."

The Chancellor also expressed the gratitude of the University to the Union Planters National Bank of Memphis, which contributed its services and facilities in effecting the gift.

"Mississippi has been good to Mrs. Carrier and me," said Mr. Carrier in presenting the funds. "We hope that in this way, by helping to support the study and development of the natural resources of Mississippi and the South we can show our gratitude to the State and the people that mean so much to us."

Tentative plans for the two-story building which will be occupied in 1953, include laboratories for chemical, civil, and mechanical engineering and engineering administration, in addition to regular classrooms, reading rooms, drafting rooms, and offices. Because of the emphasis on construction, engineering and engineering administration in the University curriculum, the building will be designed to house and demonstrate very large units of construction equipment.

In order to maintain the closest possible relationship between the applied sciences of the School of Engineering and the basic physical sciences, the building will be prominently located on the Oil Circle near the Chemistry Building and the Physics Building. The location and the planning of the building will allow adjustment to future developments in the engineering sciences, in such areas as atomic energy and petroleum engineering.

The School of Engineering was formally established at the University of Mississippi in 1901, although courses in engineering had been taught for some 25 years before that time. During the half-century of its operation, however, the School has never been adequately housed, and since 1946 most of its work has been located in a temporary frame building.

"This building," Dr. Fred H. Kellogg, Dean of the School of Engineering, said Wednesday, "will relieve us of our greatest handicap. As soon as we move into our new quarters, the people of Mississippi will begin to reap the benefits of Mr. and Mrs. Carrier's generosity through the teaching and the research that we shall be able to do for Mississippi and the South. We shall be able at last to accept the research contracts, scholarship endowments, and equipment with which industry will be glad to support our work."

Dean Kellogg went on to say that although the new building will satisfactorily house the present School of Engineering, plans are already being made toward future expansion. "Mississippi is rapidly becoming a center of chemical industry," he pointed out, "and we are under a special responsibility for developing instruction and research in petroleum engineering to keep pace with the rapid growth of the petroleum industry in this state."

"This gift will be our inspiration," he continued, "to seek more funds for the special support of our chemical engineering, especially petroleum engineering. With our present department of chemical engineering already established and with the need for work in petroleum engineering clearly recognized, as for example, in Governor White's inaugural address last January, we believe that we can find the support and promise the people of Mississippi an outstanding center of petroleum engineering within the next few years."

The Lions have played six preliminary tilts to the opening of the GSC season in New Orleans Friday, when Kenelly's nine plays the strong Loyola University Wolf Pack.

County Agent's Notes

By HOWARD SIMMONS

POULTRY

Chick Cannibalism is not a disease. It is a vice, or a bad habit. Chicks develop this habit of picking the feet, vent, combs and feathers because they may be over-crowded, they may be too warm and they may not be getting enough to eat.

Prevention is better than a cure. Make sure that your chicks are not over-crowded. To prevent their getting too warm, provide plenty of ventilation. Be sure that they have plenty of good feed and fresh water at all times.

Watch chicks carefully. If the chick does get cannibalistic habits, catch him and cut his upper beak far enough back to draw blood. Then if more air, more room, or turning the chicks out of doors does not help, it may be necessary to debeak all of them.

Take out any chick that has been severely pecked and treat with pine tar or "anti-pick."

It may be necessary to darken the room. Try placing a thin piece of red paper over the windows, or paint the windows red with water colors.

In extreme cases only, it may be necessary to add one percent salt to the feed for a three day period. However, do this only when all else has failed. Too much salt is poisonous.

FARM AND HOME WEEK

Up-to-date. Do you have the latest findings on improved agricultural practices right at your finger tips? If not plan now to attend Annual Farm and Home Week at Mississippi State College, April 22-25. Attend short courses and field days and demonstrations on all phases of Mississippi agriculture during the Annual Farm and Home Week.

COTTON

Bale to Acre. Make your farm production plan to plant cotton in those fields that will grow a bale to the acre. Take out of cotton production all acres that consistently lose money.

Increase yields in 1952 by planting cotton on good land. Use 600 pounds of 8-8-8 plus 33 pounds of nitrogen to the acre and place in about 6 inches deep in the seed bed.

One pound of nitrogen will pay 12 pounds of lint cotton when used in a balance with phosphate and potash, provided it has enough moisture.

Use of adequate fertilizer, on the average will pay $10 for every dollar invested, as compared with return from no fertilizer.

Plant seed of an approved adapted variety. Pure identified lint of certified lint is worth from $10 to $15 a bale more than mixed cotton.

Test Seed, it pays. A dime a bushel spent for gelatinizing and testing pays back 40 more pounds of seed cotton.

Know what your soil needs in the way of plant food. Have a soil test made.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. H. L. Wesner, chairman of the Red Cross drive for Clermont Harbor, wishes to thank the residents who generously donated to the American Red Cross.

She would also like to express her thanks for the cooperation and courtesy of all when contacted.

Control Cotton Insects. Carry out a complete poisoning program. Be ready to begin controlling insects as soon as the cotton is up to stand.

THIRD LARGEST COTTON CROP IN STATE'S HISTORY

Mississippi's 1951 cotton crop reached 1,620,000 bales and represents an increase of some 288,000 bales over 1950. The 1951 crop has been attained largely on an increased yield per acre and on increased acreage. It is a direct reflection of the state's intelligent use of more than 300,000 tons of fertilizers of all types.

ANOTHER SIGNPOST OF PROGRESS in the Mississippi State is the growth of the beer industry, due to the increased public acceptance of legally-regulated beer as the beverage of moderation.

Hancock Taxpayers To Pay $227,804 As Share Of Truman's Foreign Aid Plan

Hancock County taxpayers will bear $227,804 as their share of the cost of the $7,900,000 sought by the President for his 1952 foreign aid program, it appears from figures compiled by the national affairs committee of the Mississippi Economic Council.

H. K. Griffin of Meridian, chairman of the committee, said the state would pay $342,000,000 of total national cost. He said the which shows Mississippi to pay figure is arrived at by the index 54 per cent of the total federal tax bill. Hancock County, according to the state index, pays .534 per cent of the state tax bill.

"We are releasing such figures on the federal tax program again in an effort to acquaint citizens at the grass-roots level with what federal taxes mean to them, individually," Mr. Griffin stated. "It will be interesting to compare the total cost to Mississippians for the proposed foreign aid with what the state pays for public education, public welfare, or other state programs. In many instances, we find that federal taxation gets the lions share" of the tax dollar.

"The MEC is not attempting to evaluate the waste, or actual need, in the foreign aid program. However, it does feel that all federal projects should be efficiently and economically handled."

The Council, through its affiliation with the Council of State Chambers of Commerce and the U. S. Chamber of Commerce in Washington, is attempting to keep an accurate record of federal taxing and spending, the official stated.

Legislative Views

By WALTER JAMES PHILLIPS

The end of this week of the Legislative session saw two major bills, involving a great deal of controversy, pass the House. One was the highly controversial redistricting bill, whereby the district of Congressman Tom Abernathy was divided between the districts of Congressman John Rankin, and Congressman Jamie Whitten, with the home county of Congressman Abernathy being placed in Congressman Rankin's district. Much opposition to this plan was voiced by the Representatives from the Northwest corner of the state, but this plan was passed over the objections. The other controversial issue was a new plan of distributing the

Cancer is One of Top Death Causes in State

More than 220,000 deaths will occur from cancer this year. Seventy thousand of these could be prevented by early diagnosis and prompt and effective treatment, Warren Carver, Cancer Fund Campaign chairman, stated.

More than 20 million people alive in the United States today will die of cancer unless preventive measures are found or more adequate treatment discovered. About one out of every seven people who die dies of cancer. This disease is the No. 2 cause of death in our state and country. One out of every two homes will be struck by cancer. During the course of World War II, approximately two and one-half times as many deaths were caused by cancer at home as were caused by hostilities in the armed services. Is it any wonder that so many people are genuinely interested and are devoting time, work and money to the prevention and cure of cancer? They realize that they are not only serving their fellows well, but protecting themselves and their own families, he said.

It is not generally known that in World War II five million men between the ages of 18 and 37 were rejected from military service on a medical basis, and of these, 32,000 were unavailable for the armed forces because they had suffered from cancer and gasoline tax which is granted to the various counties. Under this plan, a ceiling of $190,000 was placed upon the amount any county could receive and under this plan the larger counties such as Hinds and Harrison, lose a considerable amount of the revenue which they had been previously receiving. Hancock County, under this plan, would receive an additional $10,000 per year, based upon the present revenue.

Your Representative received a letter from Congressman Colmer, in which was enclosed a letter from the U. S. Engineers, stating that if the vast 2000 feet of the present Highway bridge across the Bay of St. Louis were allowed to remain standing, that it would not constitute a navigation hazard. It is evident from said letter that the objections of the U. S. Engineers are removed, and that it should not be difficult to obtain the West portion of the present bridge for use as a public pier.

For more than a thousand years afterward, the Scriptures were preserved and circulated by Catholic monks and scholars who laboriously copied the sacred text by hand. And the Bible authorized by the Catholic Church was the first book produced by Gutenberg upon the invention of printing.

Yes, the Bible is truly a Catholic book. They were members of the Catholic Church who, under God's inspiration, wrote the New Testament in its entirety.

It was the Catholic Church which treasured it and gave it to the world in its original and unaltered form. It is the infallible authority of the Catholic Church that always has been the only sure guarantee of its inspiration.

There are obscure and difficult passages in the Bible, some of which may seem confusing. But with the complete revealed truth of God, delivered to her from the beginning, the Catholic Church has faithfully unfolded the meaning of the written Word of God to past generations of mankind—and does so today.

Those who are familiar with the Bible, as well as those who are reading it for the first time, will find many important questions concerning it clearly answered in a free booklet which we shall send you on request. Ask for Pamphlet No. 5-N.

New Anti-Epileptic Drug Is Announced

New York, April 15—A new anti-epileptic compound was described today before the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology, now in its annual meeting. Dr. Ben King Harned, of Lederle Laboratories, where the new drug was developed, read the paper.

According to the report, the drug has shown best results against the grand mal, or grand other neoplasms.

"All of us feel, I believe, that apart from the leathis and suffering which we all have felt in some measure in our personal lives and the lives of loved ones, the economic loss alone is sufficiently compelling to demand more and more attention from us all," Carver continued. "The Congress, the Mississippi Legislature, and our voluntary organization, the American Cancer Society, Mississippi Division, more and more realize our common responsibility and privilege to go forward with hard work and funds to carry on effectively the educational, service and research programs absolutely necessary for the ultimate control of the greatest disease scourge of them all—CANCER," the chairman concluded.
